#JustInnovate17

Dear participants, distinguished partners and innovators,

It is our pleasure to welcome you to the 8th annual Innovating Justice Forum!

HiiL's goal is that by 2030, 150 million people will be able to prevent or resolve their most pressing justice problem. In order to make this happen, we seek to understand justice problems by speaking with tens of thousands of people around the world to measure justice. We redesign justice procedures with key stakeholders within the justice sector. We build the Justice Leadership Group to connect leaders in justice systems. And we scout and support the world's best justice entrepreneurs.

We are proud to present a carefully selected group of 15 top-notch justice innovators from ten countries. No matter whether they are addressing pressing justice needs of families in Uganda, consumers in Ukraine, or employees in Zimbabwe, these innovators are a stark example of how the different sectors of business, law, technology, and creative arts can effectively team up to enable justice worldwide.

You are also invited to participate in several skills sessions, in which HiiL's experts in justice measurement, leadership, procedures, and innovation seek to spread the tools and visions that make their work possible. Our goal is that you leave this Forum with an inspired idea of how justice innovation can play a role in your daily life.

The Forum also hosts a group of extraordinary speakers. Their input will enrich the present discourse and highlight some of the major justice challenges that we are facing today. We encourage you to join the interactive work sessions with the innovators and panelists, in order to let your voice be heard in improving justice across the globe.

Join us to innovate justice!

BREAKING BARRIERS TO JUSTICE INNOVATION BY JUSTICE LEADERS | 10:00 | AUDITORIUM

By H.E. Chief Justice Bart M. Katureebe, H.E. Mr. Abdulla A.J. Al-Majid, Mr. Mamadou Ismaël Konaté, Dr. Sam Muller

The panel consists of the Chief Justice of Uganda, H.E. Chief Justice Bart M. Katureebe; Assistant Minister and Chief Innovation Officer, Ministry of Justice, UAE, H.E. Mr. Abdulla A.J. Al-Majid; former Minister of Justice and Human Rights of the Republic of Mali, Mr. Mamadou Ismaël Konaté. In this panel we will identify the crucial barriers to justice innovation, and discuss ways of breaking those barriers.

WORKING WITH THE JUSTICE SECTOR | 11:25 | AUDITORIUM

By Isabelle Tschan, Nathalie EJ Dijkman, David Steven

During this panel, the two panel members will present an international perspective on how to connect the justice sector with innovation. As a barrier, it can be hard for innovators to know how to work with the justice sector. Across the world justice systems are often slow to adapt to new changes. At the same time, they are pushed forward by inspired and motivated individuals within the systems. How can international initiatives and other stakeholders identify, access, and support the changemakers? What are the easiest entry points for formal collaboration with the justice sector? The panel will discuss ideas, strategies, and expertise for developing long lasting partnerships with the sector.

COURT DANCE | 11:40 | AUDITORIUM

By Dorota Gazy

Designer Dorota Gazy presents 'Court Dance' in which dancers represent the role of victim, suspect, justice and victim's support to generate insight into the dynamics which occur in court. In the courtroom the dancers are free to express emotions from their perspective and dance intuitively.

BREAKING BARRIERS TO INNOVATION USING RAPID EXPERIMENTATION LEAN STARTUP | 12:10 | SEMINAR ROOM

By Daria Nepriakhina

Justice systems around the world need to be improved. As Albert Einstein once observed, we can't solve problems by using the same kind of thinking we used when we created them. We won't fix the legal justice system by making more laws, recruiting more lawyers, judges and policemen, installing better case management systems, or by undertaking the occasional pilot study with alternative methods of dispute resolution. Many people have innovative ideas how we can improve justice systems, but how do you go from idea to successful startup? In this skill session you learn some of the basics of lean startup methodology that can help you in that quest.

BEYOND SURVEY RESEARCH: SEARCHING FOR BIG DATA FOR JUSTICE? | 12:10 | AUDITORIUM

By Dr. Martin Gramatikov

HiiL has been measuring justice in various countries, the most recent being Jordan, Lebanon, Bangladesh and Kenya. Dr. Martin Gramatikov will share some of this results with you and then challenge you to think creatively about unused but promising sources of data on the justice needs and experiences of ordinary people. Get ready to think outside the box and experiment with unorthodox methods. Possible examples are: satellite images, social media, CCTV, mobile apps, Internet of Things, public Open data...

BREAKING BARRIERS TO JUSTICE INNOVATION: DESIGNING NEW PROCEDURES | 12:10 | HISTORICAL LIBRARY

By Prof. Dr. Maurits Barendrecht

One of the challenges for access to justice is how to redesign procedures. The needs of users for fair, effective solutions are not always met by current informal procedures or procedures at courts. Current procedures may be too slow, too complicated, not trustworthy, too expensive or too much focused on legal issues. So how to build the next version? Together with stakeholders, HiiL has developed methods for developing innovative procedures. You will learn more about setting goals, developing user stories and targeted design processes. We will also talk about creating a leading coalition, engaging innovators and integrating new designs into court procedures.

TOWARDS A JUST(ICE) ECONOMY: A SHORT DOCUMENTARY | 14:00 | AUDITORIUM

By Nathalie EJ Dijkman

In this short documentary made by HiiL, we uncover the impact potential of innovations supporting the informal economy through legal solutions. We zoom in on the justice needs of small (informal) business owners, because they are a driving force of economic growth, yet their needs are consistently overlooked and ignored. The growing spread of internet and mobile penetration may provide new avenues for these business owners to find information and solutions to their unanswered legal needs. The Forum will feature a shortened version of this impact documentary directed and produced by Nathalie Dijkman & Daug Mulumba. The full documentary can be watched at www.hiil.org.

HOW DO WE PRODUCE THE NEXT JUSTICE UNICORN? | 14:45 | SEMINAR ROOM

By Carine de Meyere, Hatem Mahboul, Gerald Abila, Wilfried de Wever

Agriculture, healthcare, clean tech and financial services are all now recognized sectors of impact investing with growing track records of success. Little is being done to promote investment in causes such as fairness, legal tech, the rule of law and universal access to justice. In this session we will discuss about early stage investment and funding for start-ups working in the justice sector. We will have a panel with a founder of a justice startup, an investor, and a government official.

STREAMLINING JUSTICE DATA INTO INNOVATION AND EVIDENCE-BASED POLICIES | 14:45 | AUDITORIUM

By Vasyl Zadorny, Brian Ghariba, Edgar Kuhimbisa, David Steven, Thomas Baar

There is more and more data available. Everyone is talking about big data. But how can we use data in the field of justice? We will review some examples of successful data-driven justice innovations and evidence-based justice policies. With a panel of experts we will discuss the future of the intersection between data and justice, and you will be challenged to think about the next wave of innovations and policies, the critical factors and the resources needed.

JUSTICE CARE: A PROGRAM FOR IMPROVING FAMILY JUSTICE | 14:45 | HISTORICAL LIBRARY

By Prof. Dr. Maurits Barendrecht, Christopher Bentley, Mark Madden

Families breaking up puts children and parents at risk. Assisting people during such a transition, which is sometimes unavoidable, is a major task for every legal system. But family disputes can easily escalate in court. People need combinations of legal and counseling services that are not well developed. Research in the Netherlands and elsewhere indicates that users are not very satisfied with the current (legal) approach to separation. On the basis of a user-centred design approach, Hiil developed a comprehensive plan for improving family justice. Elements of the plan (that can be a template for other jurisdictions) are: an early diagnosis, support for coming to agreements, assistance by lawyers and other disciplines on the basis of a guideline (evidence based). Also included are an innovative design for a problem solving court procedure and online support for the parties and their helpers. Innovators can be inspired by this plan when they develop new justice services and tools.

CO-CREATION - BREAKING BARRIERS | 16:30 | AUDITORIUM & FOYER

By Nataly Vladimirova, Hellen Mukasa, Michael Richard Katagaya, Vincent Okeke, Bill Boglo-Hedo, Chikosi Tawanda, Marvin Makau, Fred Abere, Samantha N. Ngcolomba, Denys Ivanov, Georges Clement, Rami Alame

Are you interested in how our finalists broke barriers to justice innovation? Or in what barriers they are still facing? Can you help them break some barriers? This is your moment to walk up to the innovators and ask them everything you want to know about their justice innovations.

PANEL: JUSTICE LEADERS | 17:15 | AUDITORIUM

By H.E. Chief Justice Bart M. Katureebe, H.E. Mr. Abdulla A.J. Al-Majid, Dr. Willy Mutunga, Mr. Mamadou Ismaël Konaté,

The panel consists of the Chief Justice of Uganda, H.E. Chief Justice Bart M. Katureebe; Assistant Minister and Chief Innovation Officer, Ministry of Justice, UAE, H.E. Mr. Abdulla A.J. Al-Majid; former Minister of Justice and Human Rights of the Republic of Mali, Mr. Mamadou Ismaël Konaté; and former Chief Justice of Kenya & founding member of the Justice Leadership Group, Dr. Willy Mutunga. They will discuss the following question: how did today's discussions contribute to breaking barriers to justice innovation?

CALL FOR TALENT | 17:45 | AUDITORIUM

By Wilfried de Wever

This year, next to our Call for Innovations, we also issued a Call for Talent. We scouted the globe for individuals with an interesting skillset and passion for justice innovation – but without a team or idea for a justice innovation. We found many highly driven and talented individuals who want to see more access to justice and more justice innovation in the context they live and work in. Wilfried de Wever will share with us the Top Talents in Justice Innovation for 2017.

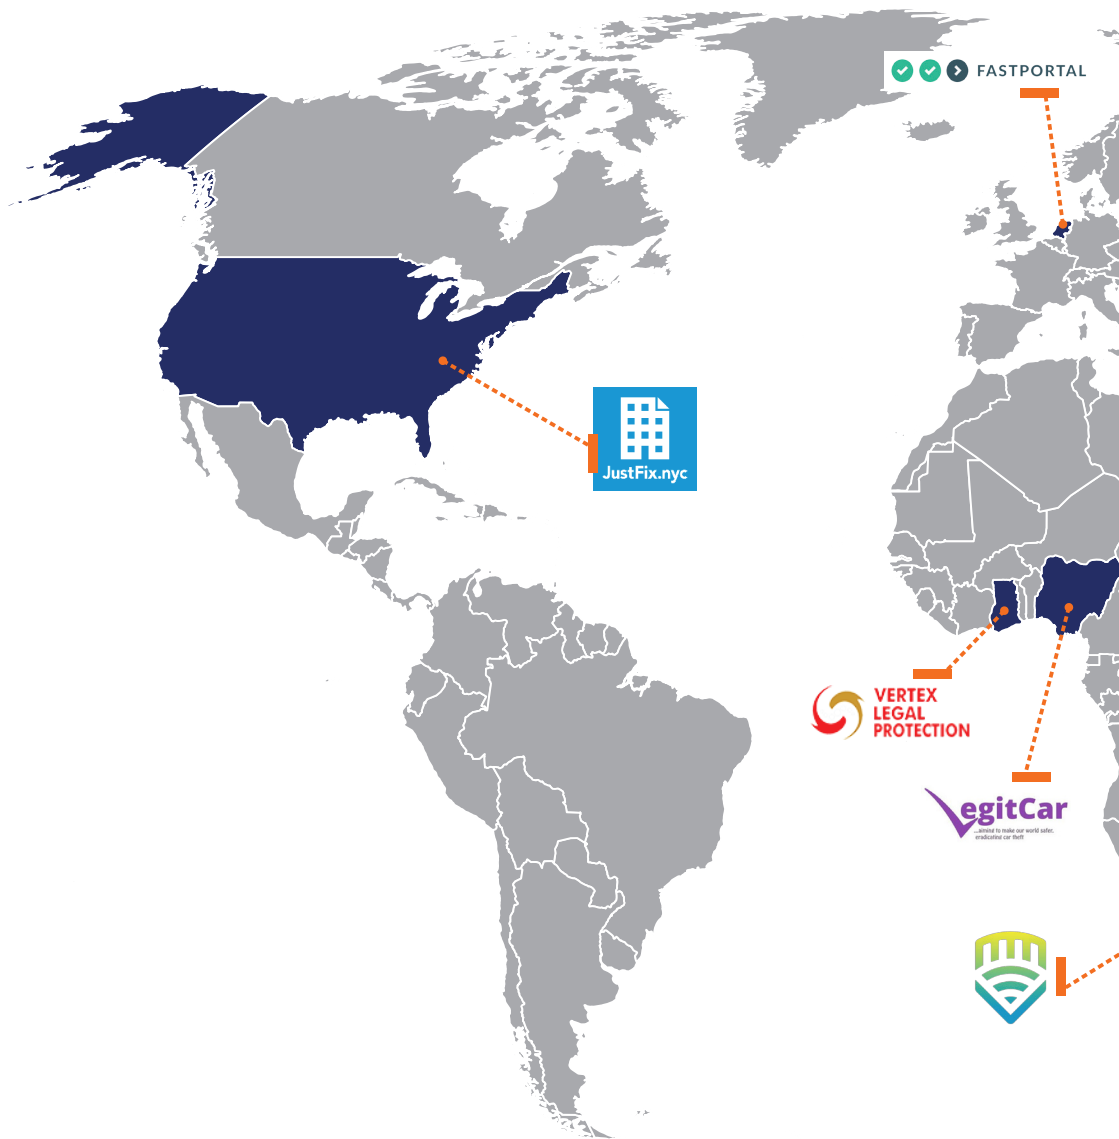

BUBBLE (2017) | FOYER

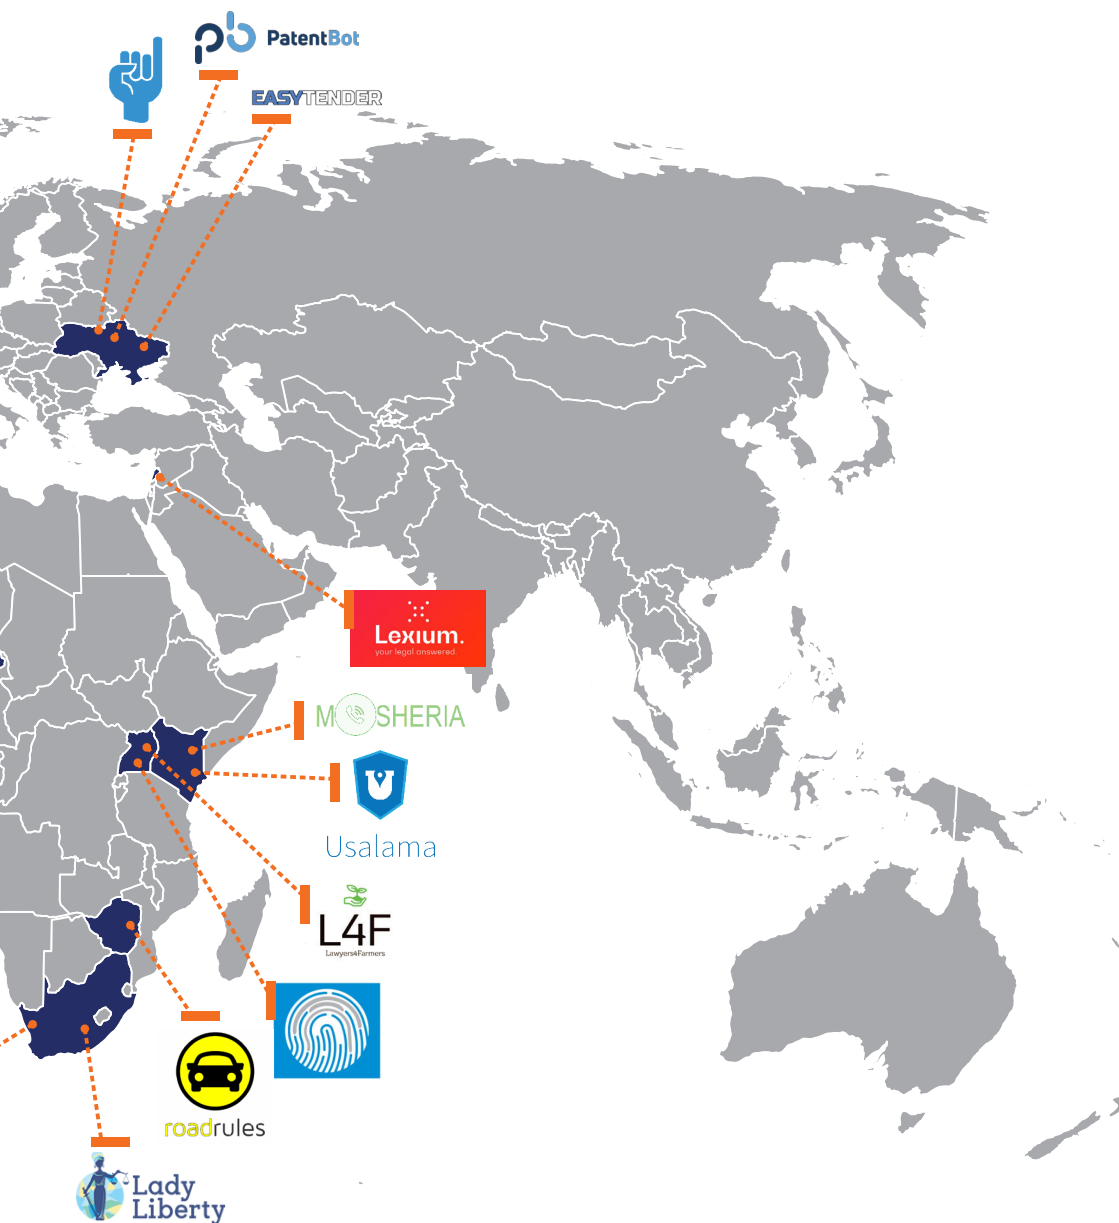

Audio installation by Creative Court

As a visitor to the Forum, you will encounter inflatable cocoon-like objects in the building's foyer. Please feel free to explore 'Bubble', an internal justice journey in audio, curated by Creative Court.

Finalists

EVIDENCE AND METHODS LAB (UGANDA)

Evidence And Methods Lab is a Ugandan civic technology initiative working in the areas of access to information, accountability and innovation. By creating smart infographics of complex justice problems they promote accountability.

LEGITCAR (NIGERIA)

LegitCar is a car theft-deterrent system to help people find their car and make it difficult to resell stolen vehicles. Since most vehicles stolen from people are still resold to unsuspecting buyers who do not know these vehicles are stolen, LegitCar hopes that by making stolen vehicles difficult to resell they make them easy to recover!

Standing alone holding a cup a coffee with no one to talk to?

It's not just an event attendee's nightmare—it's an event organizer's nightmare, too! That's why we love using Conversation Starter.

Conversation Starter is an online networking tool to be used at conferences, corporate and community events. Conversation Starter plans out meetings between potential matches amongst event attendees based on their tangible offers and requests.
